For Immediate Release

Don A. Martinez will be the featured speaker at a lunchbox lecture and book signing on February 7, 2011 at noon in the Murphy-Payne Community room of the M.P. Baker Library. His lecture will focus on the subject matter presented by two theories: Joseph Campbell's heroic/cosmogonic monomyth (the hero's journey) and Robert Jewett and John Shelton Lawrence's American monomyth (violated Eden rescued by the superhero). Following his lecture will be a book signing and sale of "The Advance Guard $9.99 and Dinetah Dragon $10.99, both written partly modeled on a prominent school of philosophy on the nature of monomyth.

Mr. Martinez holds a Bachelor of Arts in writing and a Master of Arts in English with a focus in mythology and folklore from Buffalo State College.

A light lunch will be served. The program is free and open to the community. For additional information please call 903-693-2005 or email zjett@panola.edu.
